MEDICAL EMERGENCIES

Although it may be a rare occurrence when you are volunteering, medical emergencies do arise in the theaters frequently.

It is the House Manager's responsibility to coordinate emergency response and directly assist the individual(s) in distress. Volunteers should not be calling 9-1-1 unless directed to do so. The House Managers and Security Staff are trained to take action in medical emergencies.

In the case of a medical emergency the first RedCoat to reach the person in need should stay with the person and send someone to find a House Manager. All other volunteers should remain in their positions unless directed by a House Manager to help or assist in some manner. If you are not involved with the medical emergency, please return to the theater to continue your volunteer responsibilities and keep the area clear for HM and any needed responders.

An AED is located in every theater by the house manager's office and additional AEDs are available on the second level of the larger theaters. House Managers have been trained in CPR, First Aid, and AED.

If the house managers ask you to assist with the medical emergency, please follow their directions.
