SEGA® Announces Additional Sonic Symphony Tour Dates to Meet Overwhelming Demand!

Presented by MGP Live

Today, SEGA announced additional dates in an expansion of the ongoing Sonic Symphony World Tour, including a performance at Playhouse Square on Saturday, April 20 at 8:00 p.m. This provides fans more opportunities to experience the music of Sonic the Hedgehog™ in concert!

The Sonic Symphony World Tour debuted on September 16, 2023, at the prestigious Barbican Hall in London, and its U.S. premiere took place on September 30, 2023, at the legendary Dolby Theatre in Los Angeles. A second show was added in both London and LA due to overwhelming demand. Shows to date in locations including London, Los Angeles, Boston and Chicago have sold out, and most of the previously announced upcoming tour stops are also sold out or low on tickets. Now, fans in seven more U.S. cities can join in on the fun.

Complete with both a symphony orchestra and a rock band, Sonic Symphony is an immersive concert experience celebrating over three decades of music from SEGA's iconic Sonic franchise. Sonic Symphony's world tour spans a variety of genres – from symphonic reimaginings of classic Sonic tracks to the rockin' beats of modern titles, Sonic Symphony covers it all. This is an opportunity for fans to belt out the lyrics to a selection of musical highlights as they watch their favorite Sonic moments come to life on the big screen. Sonic Symphony isn't just a concert – it's a party!

Co-produced by SEGA and soundtrec, and presented worldwide by MGP Live, the Sonic Symphony World Tour has already seen appearances by renowned composers from the Sonic franchise, Jun Senoue and Tomoya Ohtani. The audience can anticipate further special guest appearances from the Sonic family at upcoming shows.
